MIAMI BEACH CONVENTION CENTER

Nestled in the heart of Miami Beach, the state-of-the-art Miami Beach Convention Center offers flexible special event and exhibition spaces near beautiful beaches, fine dining and 5-star resorts. The MBCC welcomes more than 600,000 visitors annually. Newly re-imagined following a $620 million renovation, and expansion completed in 2019, MBCC is positioned as one of the world's premier convention centers.

Miami Beach Convention Center renovation and expansion completes

The expansion and renovation of the 1,435,000-sf Miami Beach Convention Center has recently been completed. The project was designed with the goal of making Miami Beach Convention Center the most technologically-Advanced center in the U.S. and to provide upgraded shows needs and increase the potential for the city to market the center on an international basis. Achieving this goal involved complex renovations and replacements of virtually all the building's electrical and mechanical operating systems.

A hotel project currently under development secured $62.5 million in funding to continue construction.

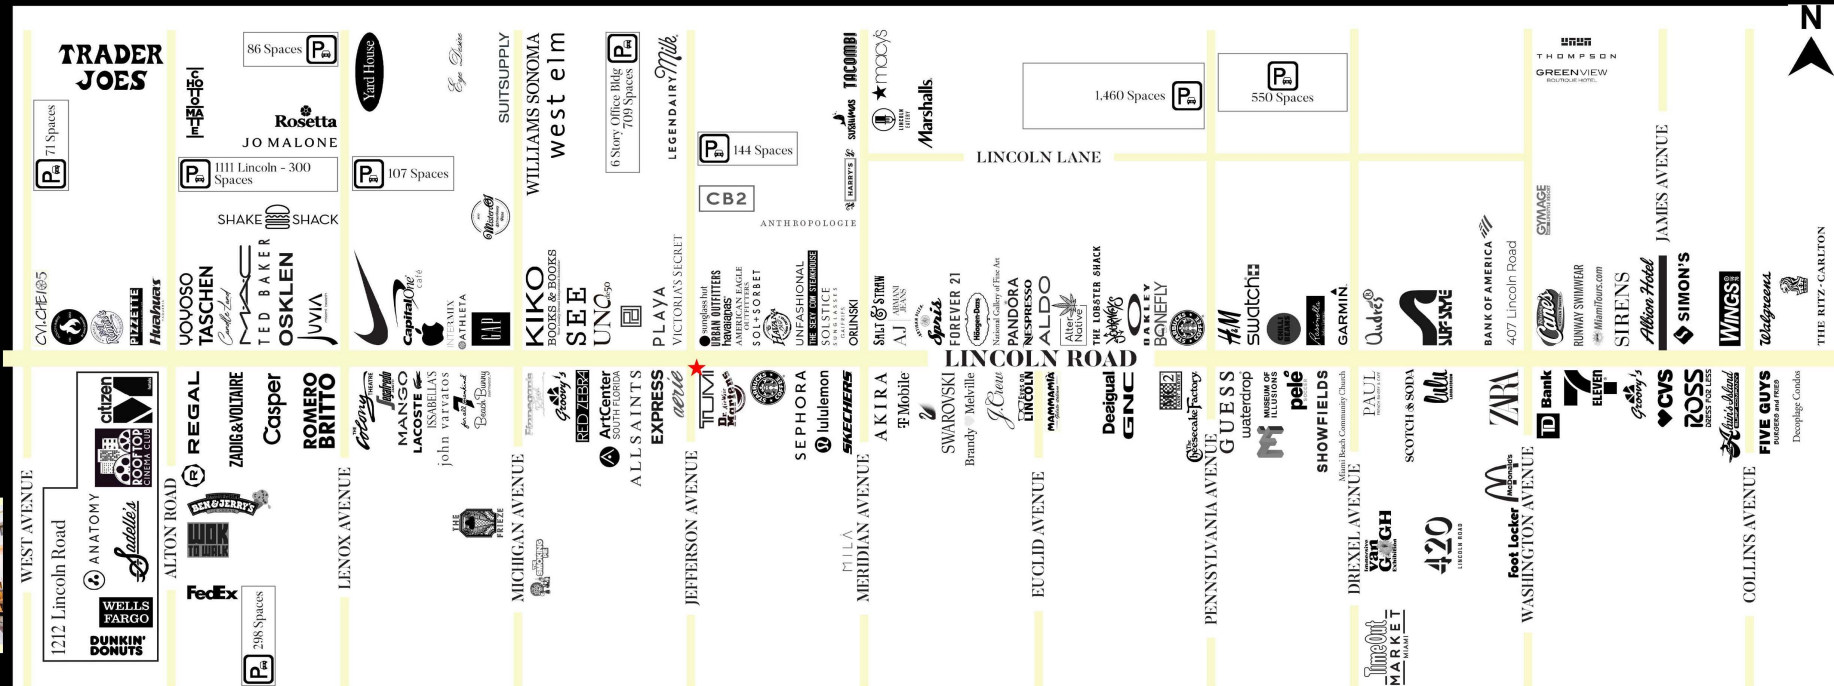

New York-based Chetrit Group closed on the $62.5 million loan from New York-based Maxim Capital Group on Wednesday, according to county records. The loan will help facilitate the continued construction and redevelopment of a handful of properties including the Collins Park Hotel in Miami Beach.

The project includes six existing buildings at 2000 and 2030 Park Ave.; 425 and 435 20th St.; 430 and 450 21st St.; and 2035 Washington Ave. in Miami Beach, according to county records. The development is just across the street from the Miami Beach Convention Center, South Florida's largest convention space.
