Description

As part of a comprehensive refurbishment and extension of the property in 2017, David Morley Architects came up with the idea of cladding the building in a living wall; the first living wall to an entire primary elevation in a Conservation Area in London. The property still creates a striking impression, and also benefits from a BREEAM - Excellent rating and EPC - B grading.

Cat A 1st floor:

Arranged in open plan, with fitted kitchenette and a large private rear terrace area; the space has a contemporary feel with designer spot lighting, acoustic ceiling baffles, underfloor trunking and timber flooring throughout...

Rental: £52.50 psf.

Location

This impressive and unique building is located in the heart of Bloomsbury on Southampton Row, between Holborn and Russell Square Underground Stations.

The Elizabeth Line is also easily accessed via nearby Tottenham Court Road Station.

Terms

A new lease is available, direct from the landlord, by negotiation for a term by arrangement.

Consideration will be given to agreeing fully inclusive, flexible lease terms, or fully managed solutions.

Reception & End of Journey facilities

There is existing cycle storage on the gnd floor, and shower facilities on the 3rd.

The landlord is preparing a scheme to upgrade and enhance the building reception, and create comprehensive new end of journey facilities within the basement.

Concept visuals and layout plans are available from the property Microsite.
