Nampa / Caldwell, Idaho

Area Summary

The Nampa and Caldwell communities are among the fastest-growing markets within the Boise metropolitan area, offering an ideal location for business growth and investment. Situated just 25 minutes from the Boise International Air port and with convenient access to Interstate 84, the area provides exceptional connectivity for regional and national commerce.

Home to the College of Western Idaho and the region's expansive Amazon Fulfillment Center, Nampa and Caldwell continue to attract a diverse mix of employers, residents, and investment opportunities. The communities boast a strong business climate, an established and highly motivated workforce, and ongoing economic development initiatives that encourage business retention, expansion, and new investment.

Long recognized for their strengths in food processing, agribusiness, and manufacturing, Nampa and Caldwell have also experienced significant growth in retail, dining, healthcare, professional services, and logistics. As population growth and commercial development continue to accelerate, businesses across a wide range of industries are finding long-term success in these thriving communities.
