South Fulton Residential Development Opportunity

Ackerman & Co. is pleased to present two residential development opportunities located along Stonewall Tell Road in Fulton County, Georgia. The offering includes two non-contiguous sites totaling approximately 87.47 acres, consisting of a 70.52-acre tract and a 16.95-acre tract, available for purchase individually or together. Both sites are positioned in the Langston Hughes High School zone and are located within the City of South Fulton, one of Metro Atlanta's fastest-growing residential corridors.

The "Suburban Neighborhood" designation supports housing density of 3 units per acre, a compelling opportunity for builders to pursue new residential product in a growing South Fulton submarket. With public water available, frontage along Stonewall Tell Road, and convenient access from Butner Road, the sites offer strong development fundamentals for single-family residential communities.

The opportunity is further enhanced by adjacency to the established Briar Creek residential community and direct access to the Wolf Creek Trail, offering future residents walkable outdoor amenities and connectivity to nearby recreation. The sites also provide the potential to maximize density through a multi-parcel assemblage strategy.

Located less than 3 miles from the new Grady South Emergency Department development, and minutes from Camp Creek Marketplace, Hartsfield-Jackson Atlanta International Airport, and I-285 / I-85, the properties benefit from proximity to major employment, healthcare, retail, transportation, and lifestyle drivers. Together, the sites represent a rare opportunity to control meaningful residential acreage in a high-growth South Fulton location with strong access and surrounding neighborhood momentum.

South Fulton Market Overview

South Fulton is one of Metro Atlanta's most dynamic residential growth corridors, offering a compelling combination of affordability, access, employment proximity, healthcare investment, recreation, and quality of life. Located southwest of Atlanta, the area benefits from convenient access to Hartsfield-Jackson Atlanta International Airport, I-285, I-85, and major employment centers throughout the Atlanta region.

The market is supported by several important economic drivers, including airport-related employment, logistics, healthcare, education, government, retail, and service-sector activity. Hartsfield-Jackson remains a major regional employment engine, while the new Grady South healthcare campus in Union City is expected to significantly enhance medical access and long-term economic activity in South Fulton. The first phase includes a new freestanding emergency department, with future plans calling for a medical office building and a full-service hospital.

South Fulton also offers strong shopping, dining, and daily-needs amenities. Nearby Camp Creek Marketplace serves as one of the area's primary retail destinations, offering restaurants, big-box retail, grocery, entertainment, services, and convenient access to surrounding residential communities. The area's retail base continues to support population growth across South Fulton, Union City, College Park, East Point, and the broader southwest Atlanta market.

The quality-of-life offering is anchored by abundant parks, trails, and recreation assets. Wolf Creek Amphitheater, located on a 435-acre wooded site, is one of South Fulton's signature entertainment venues, while nearby trails, greenspace, golf, community centers, and sports facilities provide residents with accessible outdoor and cultural amenities. These assets, combined with relative affordability and proximity to Atlanta's major employment and transportation corridors, continue to position South Fulton as an attractive market for new residential development.
